THE BIOGRAPHY OF A SILVER FOX

BY

ERNEST THOMPSON SETON

All the magic of the wild, free life of the open is caught and held in these pages—the story, from his cubhood to his splendid prime, of that aristocrat of foxes, Domino Reynard; his happy, adventurous, sometimes tragic life among the Goldur Hills; the romance of his life-union with Snowyruff.

The telling is Mr. Seton's ripest and best; and the altogether delightful and fascinating narrative is made still more delightful and fascinating by over one hundred of the author's characteristic illustrations. Cover design, title page, and general make-up by Grace Gallatin Seton. $1.50

THE CENTURY CO., NEW YORK

THE NEW MACMILLAN BOOKS

Mr. Eden Phillpotts's new novel The Three Brothers

To the New York Sun this seems "the best of the long series of these remarkable Dartmouth tales. If Shakespeare had written novels we can think that some of his pages would have been like some of these. Here certainly is language, turn of humor, philosophical play, vigor of incident such as might have come straight from Elizabeth's day. . . . The story has its tragedy, but this is less dire, more reasonable than the tragedy is in too many of Mr. Phillpotts's other tales. The book is full of a very moving interest, and it is agreeable and beautiful." Cloth, $1.50

Rina Ramsay's sparkling novel The Straw Third Edition

It would be hard to find among recent novels anything so enjoyable. Its characters have an immense fund of vitality and piquancy. It is a perfect picture of a gay and reckless hunting set, full of the tingling excitement of the chase, and the freshness of life out doors. Cloth, $1.50

By Prof. Edward Channing, Harvard University, and Marion E. Lansing

The Story of the Great Lakes (Stories from American History)

The authors have unearthed a surprising wealth of the material of romance touching three centuries of adventure upon our great inland seas. Cloth, $1.50

By Prof. George R. Carpenter, Columbia University

Walt Whitman (English Men of Letters)

A sane, well-balanced biography in the convenient series to which has recently been added Alfred Noyes's "William Morris." 75 cents net; by mail, 86 cents

By President Henry C. King A most acceptable Easter Gift

The Laws of Friendship, Human and Divine

According to this author's view, the conception of life as a friendship, with men on one side, with God on the other, goes far in solving the whole problem of life touching helpfully more of the questions of daily living than any other solution. Cloth, gilt, $1.25 net; by mail, $1.33

Dr. L. H. Bailey's Cyclopedia of American Agriculture

is now complete in four quarto volumes, with 100 full-page plates and some 2000 other illustrations. Edited by L. H. Bailey, of Cornell University, with the assistance of over 300 agricultural experts. Cloth, $25.00 net; half morocco, $32.00 net or not, the daily papers all over the country have been helping along an enormous sale for the long awaited book by Dr. Haldeman which brings Christian Science to the bar and lets the Scripture alone deal with it.

¶ Backed by the logic of common sense, it is opening the eyes and amazing the minds of the public regarding the actual truth of the great fallacy of the day.

¶ Furthermore it's a book that every Christian Scientist, every intelligent Christian, and every man or woman undecided about Christian Science WILL read.

SIENA: The Story of a Mediæval Commune

By FERDINAND SCHEVILL, Professor of History, Chicaco University.
Illustrated. $2.50 net. Postpaid, $2.75

A brilliant and comprehensive account of the history and the art of one of the most interesting cities in the world. Professor Schevill, one of the foremost authorities of the day on his subject, has founded his work largely on original researches and has made full use of all the invaluable material which the last few years have brought to light.

EGOISTS: A Book of Supermen

By JAMES HUNEKER. $1.50 net. Postpaid, $1.60

An illuminating and striking discussion of those modern poets and prose masters whose writings embody the individualistic idea as opposed to altruistic and socialist sentiments. The knowledge, vigor and brilliancy of Mr. Huneker's writings bring these extraordinary and important men vividly before the public that as yet knows little about most of them.

ENGLAND AND THE ENGLISH: From an American Point of View

By PRICE COLLIER. $1.50 net. Postpaid, $1.60

A brilliant study keen and illuminating, appreciative and sympathetic at times caustic and always intelligent and stimulating of the traits of character which have made the Englishman what he is today. He takes up "Sport," "Society," "English home life," etc.

New Novel

THE CHIPPENDALES $1.50

Blaisdell, a modern, hustling man of business, intelligent and obtuse, with equal good feeling and ruthlessness, forcibly invades the inner circle of Boston, and pushes into the best Boston families, through a series of incidents, dramatic and extremely amusing. The brilliancy of the handling and the power and appeal of the story make a remarkable book, which will arouse even more interest and discussion than "Unleavened Bread."

NOTES IN SEASON

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will bring out on April 2 "Sebastian," the new novel by Frank Danby, (Mrs. Julia Frankau.) The strikingly realistic and vivid pictures of modern London life, which marked "The Heart of a Child," are again shown in this book, but the author has left the stage in favor of the office. In addition to the development of the hero's character, the reader's interest is held by the forced awakening of Sebastian's mother to the important facts of real life to which she had long deliberately shut her eyes.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY will publish early in April the fourth volume of their French Men of Letters Series. This latest contribution is devoted to "Sainte-Beuve" and is the work of George McLean Harper, Professor of English Literature in Princeton University, author of "Masters of French Literature." Professor Harper spent some months in Europe gathering information concerning his subject, and the volume will no doubt maintain the high standard set by the previous contributors to this series—Edward Dowden, Ferdinand Brunetière and Arthur Tilley.

HARPER & BROTHERS have now ready in Harper's Library of Living Thought "Three Plays of Shakespeare," by Algernon Charles Swinburne; "Personal Religion in Egypt Before Christianity," by W. M. Flinders Petrie; "The Teachings of Jesus," by Count Leo Tolstoi; and a new edition, revised, of Walter G. Travis's "Practical Golf." They have also imported an edition of "The British Tar in Fact and Fiction," by Charles Napier Robinson, Commander of Royal Navy, giving a vivid picture of the poetry, pathos and humor of the sailor's life, and containing introductory chapters by John Leyland, author of the "Blockade of Brest." The book gives valuable reproductions of old prints, engravings and woodcuts, filling a great gap in international literature.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY will publish on April 2 "Partners Three," a new book by Victor Mapes, author of the dramas "Captain Barrington," "The Undercurrent," etc. The "partners" are Dr. Joyce, an American inventor and cheerful philosopher; Antoinette, a bewitching French girl; and "Pie," a reform school waif. The adventures of this incongruous company make one of the oddest, most genial stories ever told. It is full of surprises, and will take with every kind of reader. They have made arrangements for a Canadian edition of Townsend's delightful book, "The Climbing Courvatels," which has already made for itself thousands of readers. They also announce the second edition of Susan Glaspell's fine story of the marriage of a scientist to an artist, entitled "The Glory of the Conquered."

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have just ready a new book by Mary Roberts Rinehart, whose "Circular Staircase" was one of the happy literature surprises of 1908. The new book is entitled "The Man in Lower Ten," and is as full of mystery as it is of humor and love interest. The starting point of the story is that a man goes to bed in "lower nine" of the Washington sleeper from Pittsburg, and awakens in "lower seven." In the meantime another man, in "lower ten," which berth the first man was to have occupied if Pullman arrangements had gone straight, is murdered, and the man in "lower seven" finds, as he starts to dress, not his own clothes and shoes, but the garments of somebody else and the bag of somebody else, instead of the one containing his own valuable papers. Here the puzzle begins, and seems all the more baffling because of its very simplicity. Howard Chandler Christy has made some illustrations for the book, which are reproduced in colors.

This book aims to show that the misgovernment of American cities is due not to the defects of democratic principles (nor to any dissimilarity in the principles of correct city government and the principles of civic government generally), but to an utter failure to apply them; that the successful conduct of city government, the world over, has been in direct proportion to the appplication of the fundamental principles of democracy; and that the experience of European cities has demonstrated that the complexity of city government is in the variety and magnitude of the interests affected by it and not in the nature of the principles involved. With this, the fifth volume, Prof. Ferrero's great work is completed. This volume continues the history to the close of the reign of Augustus Cæsar, A.D. 14. The years covered by the narrative present the most important epoch in the history of Rome, because it was during this period that Rome became conscious of her mission and responsibilities for the rule of the West. Her attention had hitherto been directed almost exclusively towards the East, but during these years it was, under the pressure of events, directed towards Gaul and the West.

Author is pastor of the Baptist Church at 79th St. and Broadway, New York City. He has already written "Theosophy or Christianity," "Can morality save us," etc. He aims to prove that Christian Science is wholly outside the Bible and has no right to the name "Christian." He brings out the fundamental propositions of Christian Science and analyzes them and shows a great gulf fixed between the Bible and Christian Science theories. He does not once mention the woman who first taught Christian Science. He considers the faith dangerous and believes it is of the evil one.

A young boy employed in a great department store by chance comes upon evidence that robbery to a startling extent has been going on in the store. He learns of it while he and a boy friend are breaking some trifling rules. To save his friend and at the same time to be loyal to his employer places him in a disagreeable position. Finally his actions are so suspicious that both he and his friend are arrested as the thieves. How the mystery is finally unraveled is told in detail by the boy himself, and is a very ingenious story.

Catherine Dennis, although but a hard working maid on a farm, had the misfortune to attract the attentions of two men, one a rough shepherd, but a noble specimen of a man, the other rich and of a more conventional type and above the girl in station. Catherine is very pretty and inexperienced, and uncertain of just which one she wants. Her irresolution results in many odd and dramatic episodes. The characters are remarkably well drawn. The scene is England. By the author of "The sheepstealers," etc.

Lane, Mrs. Elinor Macartney. Katrine: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1909. c. 8+315 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The story opens on the Ravenal plantation in North Carolina that has been in the possession of the Ravenal family for two hundred and fifty years. Katrine is the daughter of a new overseer recently come to the Ravenals. Her father is well born, but much trouble has made him intemperate. Katrine is a charming character, sweet and good and gifted, with a voice that in after years makes her famous on the operatic stage. She finds friends in two men, one a brilliant Irishman, the other is Frank Ravenal, the only heir to his name and a charming man, but of conventional ideas as to his importance in the world. Katrine's story is related with much sympathy—her love affairs, her studies with a great etc., being rich in interest. The fact that the author died in the week her book appeared lends a sad interest to this story.

Leroux, Gaston. The perfume of the lady in black. N. Y., Brentano's, 1909. c. 377 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

The characters of "The mystery of the yellow room" all reappear in this story, the hero being again Joseph Rouletabille, the young reporter. Larsan, the man who created so much trouble in the first story and was finally thought to have died, comes again upon the scene very much alive after Robert Darzac and Mathilde Stangerson had married. His many diabolical plots against the pair are given in detail. It is the young reporter who, through a peculiar perfume used by Mathilde Stangerson or Larson, discovers that he is her son through her first marriage with Larsan. He had only known her when a boy at school as "the lady in black."

Vance, L: Jos. The bronze bell; with il. by Harrison Fisher. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1909. c. 9+361 p. D. cl., †$1.50.
The author of "The brass bowl" and "The black bag" tells a new story of mystery in "The bronze bell." The hero is a young American who has lived for some years in India and written books about it. The reader is first introduced to him on his way to a friend's place on Long Island for a few days' duck shooting; his telegram has been detained and his friend fails to meet him at the station; he starts to walk to his final destination and has an adventure with a beautiful girl on a black horse and a fat and dirty Hindu, who presents him with "the token," a bronze bell in a box. From here on both these persons have leading parts in the story. The scene changes to India, where the hero goes in pursuit of the heroine, and with the hope of unravelling "the mystery" and gets into international complications.

There are thirty-eight chapters illustrating through the lives of literary geniuses the road to success, or offering inspiring episodes from the careers of great writers.

Webster, Jean. Much ado about Peter; il. by Charlotte Harding and Harry Linnell. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1909. c. '05, '07, '08. 8+300 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

It is the life of the back stairs and stables that the author depicts, with full regard for the essential manliness of such a groom as Peter, clean-cut, Irish, and big-hearted; and of the sympathetic womanliness of sweet, honest and lovable Annie, the maid. Then there are Billy, the undergrown, and Vittorio Emanuele, the timid gardener, who fought through a fearful African campaign; and the irrepressible four youngsters that burned the carriage shed; Mr. Carter's involuntary elephant ride round the circus ring, and Peter's much-tangled love affair.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 27, 1909.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information and guidance in buying books. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of booktrade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

RESPONSIBILITY OF FORWARDING AGENTS.

A QUESTION of vital interest to the shippers of goods by forwarding agents and express companies has just been decided by the Court of Common Pleas No. 3, of Philadelphia County.

Suit was brought by P. Blakiston's Son & Company to recover from a firm acting as forwarding agents the value of a shipment of books which was sent by them to a customer in Honolulu, H. I. The goods were properly packed and shipped, but by some error on the part of the transferring companies, delivery of goods was made to the wrong person. After some months they were traced and offered to the purchaser, who refused to accept for the reason that the seller had made duplicate shipment in the meantime.

At the trial of the case the forwarding agents pleaded as an excuse of their failure to deliver on time that they were in no way responsible to do so. They claimed that they were only "forwarding" agents and not "common carriers,"and hence were under no obligation to the shipper for the safe or prompt transportation of the goods received by them. They attempted to shift the responsibility upon the various railways and steamship companies whom they employed. The learned trial judge accepted the view of the defendants and held that they were not "common carriers" and hence that it was necessary for any one seeking to recover against them to show some specific act of negligence on the part of the forwarders resulting in the loss.

It is obviously a practical impossibility for the shipper of goods by forwarders to show such an act of negligence as the court seems to require in order to "support a recovery," for the reason that the particular carrier employed to transport the goods is unknown to the shipper and there are no means by which he can discover where the fault in fact lies.

In most commercial circles there is no known distinction between a "common carrier," such as a railway or express company, and a "forwarder," and as the responsibilities of the "forwarder" seem to be thus so restricted, it becomes a matter of serious importance to the shippers of goods to consider whom they are employing.

Messrs. Blakiston & Company have appealed the case, and it is hoped that the ultimate decision will be more in the line with the generally supposed responsibility of forwarding agencies.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS.

AT a meeting of the Board of Trustees of The Booksellers' League, held on Monday evening, March 22, at the Café Thomas, New York City, the following officers were elected:

First vice-president, E. B. Hackett.
Second vice-president, E. O. Chapman.
Secretary, A. G. Seiler.
Treasurer, Charles A. Burkhardt.

The president, J. B. Pratt, appointed the following committees:

Entertainment Committee: F. D. Lacy, Edwin W. Hall, B. W. Huebsch, A. Wessels, E. O. Chapman.

Finance Committee: Theodore E. Schulte, J. Macdonald, A. Giraldi.

Membership Committee: C. E. Butler, J. A. Holden, E. B. Hackett.

Printing Committee: Charles A. Burkhardt, Cass Richardson, W. G. Preston.

Employment Bureau: Charles E. Bonnell, Charles A. Burkhardt.

Publicity Committee: A. Growoll, E. O. Chapman, R. E. Sherwood.

Reception Committee: C. L. Bowman, C. E. Butler, J. A. Holden, E. B. Hackett, F. D. Lacy, A. Growoll.

After the annual meeting of the League last week had adjourned, it was discovered that two of the candidates for the Board of Trustees had received the same number of votes. As it was then too late to correct the error, the Board at its meeting on the 22d inst. held an election which resulted in the choice of B. W. Huebsch.

A LIBRARY OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST BOOKS.

THE LAMB PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York City, are preparing for the trade an offer of unusual attractiveness in their library of The World's Greatest Books. This series now includes sixty imperial octavo volumes, which it is proposed in time to round out with a hundred volumes. The volumes are printed on deckle-edge paper made specially for this series; the type is readable and the margins liberal, the presswork of a high standard; the books are substantially and handsomely bound in dark blue buckram, gilt tops, uncut, with a heavy gold line around the borders, with the title on the side as well as on the back of each volume; and the art features comprise photogravures from famous paintings and classic sculpture, portraits of authors, mediæval illuminations and palæographic manuscripts, choice examples of early printing and engraving, and various other illustrations, reproduced as nearly perfect mechanically as they can be made by the latest improvements in the reproductive arts, many of them being facsimiles of the originals as to colors and gilt.

The series includes Rawlinson's "Ancient History; Hallam's "History of the Middle Ages," including Michelet's "Modern History," (3 v.); Green's "History of the English Peoples," including "Guizot Civilization in Europe," (3 v.); Carlyle's "History of the French Revolution," (2 v.); Creasy's "Decisive Battles of the World;" Montesquieu's "Spirit of the Laws," including Bagehot's "Physics and Politics," (2 v.); Mill's "Political Economy," (2 v.); De Tocqueville's "Democracy in America," (2 v.); Plato and Aristotle; Bacon's "Advancement of Learning" and "Novum Organum;" Kant's "Critique of Pure Reason;" Hegel's "History of Philosophy;" Demosthenes's Orations; Cicero's Orations; British Orations, (2 v.); American Orations, (2 v.); British Essays; American Essays, (2 v.); French, German and Italian Essays; Persian and Japanese Classics, (2 v.); Hindoo Classics; Chinese and Arabian Classics; Sacred Classics: Classic Dramas, (2 v.); Taine's English Literature, (3 v.); Egyptian Literature; Turkish Literature; Hebrew Literature; Moorish and Malayan Literature; Babylonian, Armenian and Assyrian Literature; Classic Memoirs, including Annals of Goethe, (3 v.); Froissart Chronicles, including Voltaire's "History of Charles XII.," (2 v.); Dante's "Divine Comedy;" Tasso's "Jerusalem Delivered;" The Nibelungenlied; Ranke's "History of the Popes," (3 v.); Machiavelli's "History of Florence;" Plato's "The Republic;" Hamilton's "The Federalist," and Ideal Commonwealths.

Accompanying the series is a summary showing at a glance a synopsis of the contents of each volume, with the names of the author, the translator, the writer of the special introductions and the number of pages in text. The volumes were issued under the direction of Justin McCarthy, Dr. Timothy Dwight, Paul Van Dyke, Dr. Maurice Francis Egan, Julian Hawthorne and others equally well known, and contain introductory matter by such writers as Dr. Albert S. Cook, Goldwin Smith, Andrew Lang, Edward Dowden and others. The price of the set is special, and will be quoted only to the trade upon application.

BEST-SELLING BOOKS IN ENGLAND DURING FEBRUARY.

"IT is March," says the London Bookmonthly in reviewing the book market, "and the spring season should be with us; and so it is in a way, but in a way only. It has not been a very lively infant during February; which is to say that while there have been lots of books, some of them quite interesting, the reader and buyer have not been active enough. With March he will, no doubt, become more active, and to that activity one dedicates the titles of the six works published in February that have sold best":

Tono-Bungay, by H. G. Wells. Macmillan.
The Royal End, by Henry Harland. Hutchinson.
Fraternity, by John Galsworthy. Heinemann.
Araminta, by J. C. Snaith. Smith, Elder.
Idolatry, by Mrs. Alice Perrin. Chatto & Windus.
The British Tar in Fact and Fiction, by Commander Robinson. Harper & Bros.

HIGH PRICES FOR RARE BOOKS.

POE'S "TAMERLANE."

THE highest price realized at the William Hermann sale at Anderson's last week was $1460, which was paid by G. D. Smith for the rare original edition of Edgar Allan Poe's "Al-Aaraaf, Tamerlane, and Other Poems," an octavo in terra cotta-colored boards with cloth back, published in Baltimore in 1829.

WALTON'S "COMPLEAT ANGLER."

A PERFECT copy of the first edition of Izaak Walton's "Compleat Angler" brought £1085 at Sotheby's on March 20. This was the second highest price ever paid for a copy of the work. The third highest price was recorded at the Heckscher sale in New York last month.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

IT is said that Rostand's two plays, "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "L'Aiglon" have paid him $2,500,000 in royalties.

RALPH CONNOR is at work on a new story of western life, to be published this fall in the United States by George H. Doran Company for the Hodder & Stoughton list, under the probable title of "The Commander."

THE Laetare medal, which is annually conferred by the University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Ind., on some lay member of the Catholic Church in the United States for distinguished service in art, literature, science or philanthropy, will be given this year to Mrs. Frances Christine Fisher Tiernan, the authoress, better known in the literary world as Christian Reid.

OBITUARY.

ERASTUS DARROW.

ERASTUS DARROW, the oldest bookseller, in continuous service, in this country, died on March 21, in Rochester, N. Y., aged eighty-six. Mr. Darrow was stricken with pneumonia on the 19th inst. while visiting at the home of a friend. He was hurried to the residence of his son, Dr. Charles E. Darrow, and every possible precaution was taken because of his great age. The disease did not seem to take a fatal turn until late the same night, when Mr. Darrow learned that his bookstore, which contained mementos of a lifetime, with many souvenirs of incidents of his life, had been destroyed by the fire in the East Side Savings Bank annex. The shock was great and he did not rally.

Until the day of his last illness Erastus Darrow had scarcely felt the weight of years. His heart was young, and he had many young friends who loved to hear the reminiscences of his long and interesting life; he was always cheerful and optimistic. He loved to attend to business in his old bookstore and get out his famous "birthday calendars," this year's having been the sixty-third annual edition.

Mr. Darrow was born in Plymouth, Conn., January 29, 1823. His father, Captain Leavitt Darrow, was a soldier in the War of 1812, stationed for the defense of New London, Conn.; grandfather, Titus Darrow, was a captain of militia, and was a soldier in General Gaines's army of the Revolution, at the capture of Burgoyne at Saratoga in October, 1777. His grandmother, Lucy Blackman Darrow, was driven away by the Indians from Wilkes-Barre at the Wyoming Valley massacre. She was directly descended from Richard Warren, twelfth signer of the "Mayflower compact."

He was educated at Plymouth and at the high school of Professor Amos Smith, New Haven, Conn. After leaving school, in March, 1841, he entered the college bookstore of A. H. Maltby, New Haven, the very week of the inauguration of President William Henry Harrison. In 1844 he went to Rochester and for nearly two years was with Clarendon Morse, succeeding as clerk D. M. Dewey, who then opened up a bookstore in Reynolds' Arcade. In 1846, Darrow went into the book business in the Minerva Block, where the Merchants Bank now stands. He was one of the original stockholders of the Genesee Valley Railroad from Rochester to Avon; of the Osburn House Company; one of the original subscribers to the University of Rochester, and other public institutions.

He changed the location of his businesss to the Osburn House Block, where the Granite building now stands, later to No. 214 Main Street east, and in 1899 to rooms in the East Side Savings Bank building. His business in books and stationery was continued since 1846.

James H. Gregory was a partner with him for five years early in his career; his brother, Wallace Darrow, was his partner from 1856 to 1866; Henry Kempshall from 1866 until his death in 1868. Henry N. Bingham was clerk and bookkeeper for him for twenty-five years.

Mr. Darrow's business was at the time of his prime one of the great bookstores of New York State. He was also a publisher, bringing out "The Family Pocket Homeopathist," by D. A. Baldwin, M.D., Kenyon's "English Grammar," D. W. Ward's "History of the Churches of Rochester," Dr. Cheeseman's work on the "Differences Between Old and New School Presbyterians," etc., and his calendar, mentioned before, which was one of the time-honored institutions of Rochester.

Mr. Darrow was always ready to bear a part in the spread of good reading and general education. He helped to welcome Charles Dickens at the Tontine Hotel in New Haven, in 1841, and entertained Martin Farquhar Tupper, whose "Proverbial Philosophy" he published in this country. He was an officer of a number of public institutions and a promoter of the Rochester Historical Society and other local enterprises, as well as an occasional contributor to the literary and trade journals.

AT a meeting of the Booksellers and Stationers of Rochester, N. Y., held at the store of Scrantom, Wetmore & Co., March 22, there were present the following: L. G. Wetmore, A. C. Walker, R. S. Williamson, Wm. C. Edwards, F. J. Stuppe, Andrew O'Keefe, George P. Humphrey, K. W. Barry, R. J. Powers, H. P. Hemmingford and Isaac Lazarus.

The meeting was organized by the election of Mr. Williamson as chairman. It was resolved that the members of the trade attend the funeral of the late Erastus Darrow as a body. A committee on resolutions was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Powers, Walker and Humphrey. A committee consisting of Mr. Wetmore and Mr. Edwards was appointed to send a floral tribute. Mr. Powers was requested to act as secretary of the meeting. The committee on resolutions was instructed to send a copy of the resolutions and proceedings to the daily papers of the city, and to the various trade journals. The committee on resolutions met immediately and adopted the following minute:

Again the hand of death has touched and taken from the ranks of our membership an honored and beloved friend. Seldom in any business circle, or in any community, has there lived for a period beginning before the birth of even the oldest among our membership and ending at the age of 87 years, one so respected and beloved as Erasmus Darrow. During more than sixty years of this time he was identified with the selling of books and whether in the height of his most prosperous days or times of more modest endeavor he was always the devoted servant of his profession and business, and its service and advancement was ever more to him than the personal profit and advantage gained.

His kindly personality and ever active interest in the welfare of all associates will always be affectionately remembered and we shall sadly miss him as the beloved Dean of our body.

With this record of our sorrow we extend to his bereaved family our sincere sympathy.

COMMUNICATIONS.

HOW TO PLACE THE BOOK BUSINESS ON A PAYING BASIS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The following should interest every dealer in miscellaneous books. A great argument could be made of each one of the points named; but I would simply like to see the points stated so as to call out other suggestions.

1. Publish all books at a fixed price.
2. Allow a discount of one-third of fixed price to the dealer, as a minimum discount.
3. Contracts to be sent out by publishers to be signed by dealers, agreeing to maintain fixed price. Any dealer selling at less than fixed price to be refused additional stock from publisher or jobber, on notice from publisher.
4. New publications to be supplied by publisher, not to exceed one copy to be furnished the dealer on consignment for 60 days.
5. All mail orders received by publisher from any person not in book business to be referred to dealer or dealers. E. H.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Colonial Book Company has been incorporated to publish and sell books and periodicals. The incorporators are Noble Hill, C. E. Douglass, G. W. Conn, Jr., C. W. Hart.

CHICAGO, ILL.—A. Flanagan Company, publishers, booksellers and dealers in school supplies, have removed to 338-344 Wabash Avenue.

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C.—Charles E. Pless has sold his book and stationery store to William Lott, who will continue the business at the old stand. Mr. Pless is now manager of the Charles E. Pless Co., at Winston-Salem, N. C.

NEW YORK CITY.—John J. Cass, who for years has been in the second-hand book business at 62 Cortlandt Street, during the latter years senior member of the firm of Cass & O'Malley, has sold out his interest to H. W. Hall, who with Mr. O'Malley will continue the business under the firm name of Hall & O'Malley. About May 1 the business will be removed to 64 Cortlandt Street, where they will have larger space and increased facilities. Mr. Cass, who publishes Bolton's History of Westchester County, will devote his entire time to the publishing business.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Cochrane Publishing Company will remove March 31 to larger quarters in the Tribune Building, having taken a suite of offices on the 17th floor, just above the Mergenthaler Linotype Company's.

NEW YORK CITY.—The United States Stationery Stores Company, of 852 Broadway, has made an assignment to Harvey Smith, of Brooklyn. The company was incorporated in October last with a capital stock of $30,000 to do a general printing and stationery business. It was the intention to open stores at various places and give coupons to customers redeemable in cash. Randolph M. Smiley is president and Joseph P. Stearns secretary and treasurer.

NORTH ADAMS, MASS.—Frank Martin, manager of the Tilton Book and Stationery Store, which was recently burned out, has announced that on April 1 the business will be moved to the Dowlin Block, into a store which will be refitted for the purpose. An improved and enlarged stock of books and stationery will be carried.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HINDS & NOBLE, New York City, have acquired the publishing and selling rights of all the books on public speaking formerly brought out by Pearson Brothers, of Philadelphia.

"MY AFRICAN JOURNEY," the Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill's story of a trip from Mombasa to Cairo, just published by George H. Doran Company, deals with the exact country through which Theodore Roosevelt is planning to go. It is a first-hand book on Africa, civilized and uncivilized.

MITCHELL KENNERLEY will bring out in April a novel by A. S. M. Hutchinson, entitled "Once Aboard the Lugger," which is described as being thoroughly amusing, although "through all the laughter and the quaintness shines the reality of life."

THE ROMANCE PRESS, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will publish on April 15 a novel by George Elliot Flint, son of the famous scientist and physician, entitled "The Short Cut." Mr. Flint asserts that the play, "The Easiest Way," is taken from his story, and says that he will take such legal steps as may be necessary to protect his interests.

GINN & COMPANY will, within a short time, bring out "Readings on American Federal Government," by Paul S. Reinsch, Professor of Political Science in the University of Wisconsin. Professor Reinsch was the author of "International Administrative Law and National Sovereignty," which lately appeared in a number of the American Journal of International Law.

THE BOOK SUPPLY COMPANY, Chicago, will publish on August 25 a new book by Harold Bell Wright, author of "The Printer of Udell's" and "The Shepherd of the Hills," to be entitled "The Calling of Dan Matthews." The first two of Mr. Wright's books have exhausted editions of well above 100,000 copies each, so that the publishers feel encouraged to put out a first edition of the new book of 100,000. Reilly & Britton Co. will be the selling agents.

THROUGH an error, it was recently announced that the biography of "The Hon. Mrs. Norton," to be brought out here by Henry Holt & Company, and in England by John Murray, was the work of "Miss Alice Perkins." It should have been credited to Miss Jane Perkins, who is a sister-in-law of Professor Edward Everett Hale, Jr., of Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., the well-known author of "Dramatists of To-day," and editor of a number of English classics.

B. W. DODGE & Co. have just ready "Fate and the Butterfly," by Forrest Halsey, who after ill-luck in Wall Street has turned to the writing of novels and plays, and has used his inside knowledge of New York society life to great advantage; "The Outcast Manufacturers," by Charles Fort, a new realistic writer who here offers a convincing novel of slum life; and "The Gun Runners," another romance of modern electric discoveries by Arthur Stringer, of "Wire Tappers" fame.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. have just ready the second series of Calvin Dill Wilson's essays to young people, entitled "Making the Most of Ourselves," in which he treats many sides of living in instructive, elevating style. The author thinks much is needed besides goodness of character to successfully fight the battle of life. He preaches the value of concentration, the gospel of work, battling against the blues, making and keeping friends, the measureless value of self-control, finding what you want in books, etc.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just issued "Motor Tours in Wales and the Border Countries," by Mrs. Rodolph Stawell, covering a comparatively untravelled part of Great Britain, full of delightful old historic towns and villages; and "From Cairo to the Cataract," by Blanche M. Carsen, a narrative of a journey through the better known parts of Egypt, profusely illustrated, chiefly from photographs taken by the author. These books are both gotten up with all the attraction of manufacture that makes the L. C. Page & Co.'s travel books so popular.

S. D. WARREN & Co., the enterprising paper manufacturers of 161 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass., have prepared a set of six volumes that should be in the library of every publisher, or at least in that of every man interested in making good books. The first five volumes illustrate the use of specific papers made by Warren & Co., while the sixth volume is made up of supplementary samples showing all grades and thicknesses. These volumes, in addition to showing the S. D. Warren papers in an attractive manner, contain a complete table of qualities, sizes, weights and bulk, and a paper scale for ordering.

THE Verlagsanstalt für Farben-photographie, (Weller & Hüttich,) formerly the Internationaler Weltverlag, has in preparation a sumptuous work on the German colonies—"Die Deutschen Kolonien"—prepared by a number of authorities on the subject and edited by Captain Kurt Schwabe. The colonies included are Togo Kamerun, Southwest Africa, Eastern Africa, Kaiser Wilhelmsland and the island group in the Indian Ocean, Samoa and Kiao-Chou. The work will be in folio with upwards of 200 illustrations reproduced in color photography. Lemcke & Buechner, 30 W. Twenty-seventh Street, New York City, solicit subscriptions for the work at 200 marks.

WITH the publication of Victor Hugo's "History of a Crime," in two volumes, "Napoleon the Little," two volumes of his poems and three volumes of his dramatic works, Little, Brown & Company are now the publishers of the most complete set of Hugo's works available in America. His previously-published romances comprise fourteen volumes, and these eight new volumes have been made to match the regular Library editions as well as the new Handy Library edition. The two volumes of the poems are especially valuable, as they are the most complete English translations ever made; they include nearly five hundred poems, containing the masterpieces from all the separately published French volumes.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY will shortly issue "Mary of Magdala," by Mrs. Harriette Gunn Roberson, a religious novel that cannot fail to lead to much discussion and which has been very highly commended by Dr. McArthur, of Calvary Baptist Church, New York City. The author's father was a Scotch Baptist minister, and she also traces her ancestry to the Norse kings and jokingly calls herself a Scotch-Heathen. Mrs. Roberson aims to clear the fair name of Mary Magdalene, who has been so generally confounded with the Mary "who was a sinner." The story purports to be told by John, the "Beloved Disciple," and relates his love for Mary, the fair maiden of Magdala, with dignity and charm. The author is identified with life in the West, where her father was for twenty-one years chaplain of the prison at Fort Madison, Wisconsin.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO. have just ready a novel of English sporting life by Miss Eyre Hussey, author of "Miss Badsworth, M. F. H.," entitled "Polly Winford;" and an abridged edition of "Jock of the Bushveld: the Story of a Dog and His Master," African hunting stories by Percy Fitzgerald. Other books to follow shortly include "The Springs of Helicon: a Study of the Progress of English Poetry from Chaucer to Milton," by J. W. Mackail, professor of poetry at Oxford University; "The Human Species: Its Specific Characteristics Considered from the Standpoint of Comparative Anatomy, Physiology and Pathology," by Dr. Ludwig Hopf, of Stuttgart; "A Text-book of Experimental Psychology," by Charles S. Meyers, lecturer in experimental psychology in the University of Cambridge; and "Pastor Ovium: the Day Book of a Country Parson," by John Huntley Skrine, telling of his life as "pastor ovium," shepherd of the sheep.

CASTING bread upon the waters is exemplified, in a curious way, in the case of "The Girl and the Bill." The author, Mr. Bannister Merwin, was formerly on the editorial staff of the Frank A. Munsey Company. In his capacity as editor he frequently suggested plots to those who were fortunate enough to be regular contributors of fiction to the Munsey publications, but were unfortunate enough to be temporarily without ideas. Among the plots given out in this way was the outline of "The Girl and the Bill." The would-be author who received it dallied with it awhile, but at last returned the plot to Mr. Merwin, who put it away in his desk. When he resigned from the editorial staff to make a business of writing fiction, he lost little time in writing "The Girl and the Bill." As a contributor he sent "The Girl and the Bill" to the very office where, as an editor, he had suggested the story, and it was immediately accepted.

E. P. DUTTON & CO. have three books of stirring biographical interest. They have secured the American rights of "General Kuropatkin's Military Memoirs," in the English version by A. B. Lindsay, translator of Nojine's "The Truth About Port Arthur," and offer an important contribution to military science and Asiatic history in which are frankly discussed the policies which led up to the Russo-Japanese War, followed by a full report of the great conflict, a book which has been suppressed by the censors at St. Petersburg, although its author was for several months commander-in-chief of the Russian forces. "Memories of My Life," by Francis Galton, is full of good anecdotes about this celebrated exponent of the laws of heredity; and Dr. A. C. Kalischer's new critical edition of "Beethoven's Letters," translated by J. S. Shedlock, has been augmented by nearly 400 letters which has been discovered during the past twenty years.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have brought out this week a work entitled "Spain of Today from Within," by Manuel Andujar, an instructive, interesting narrative of a native of Spain, who knows his country well. He was brought up a Catholic, later on embraced the Protestant religion, and became a minister of the Gospel. The stories of his travels in Spain will be found entertaining as well as instructive reading, as will also be his glad narrative of the progress of evangelical work in that priest-ridden nation. The book is delightfully illustrated, and also contains an autobiography of the author. They have also just ready a missionary story by Annie L. A. Baird, "Daybreak in Korea," describing the story of a girl's life in Korea, her unhappy marriage and her conversion to Christianity. Dr. Haldeman's work, "Christian Science in the Light of the Holy Scripture," just published, has already created a sensation among those interested in either side of the question.

HENRY HOLT & COMPANY have just brought out "The Lady of the Dynamos," an Anglo-American love story by Adele Marie Shaw and Carmelita Beckwith, which again offers a "lightning conductor" as hero, but this time one who really leads the lightnings which he employs in arc lights and machinery. He first meets the heroine lying on the ground studying a knotty problem about dynamos from a book. She proves well equipped with brains and courage, and becomes a most helpful chum in his life work. Also ready this week is "When Railroads Were New," by Charles Frederick Carter, who has written with authority and great charm of the picturesque and fantastic features in the development of our great railway systems in a profusely illustrated volume. Frank H. Knowlton's great work on "The Birds of the World," a popular account, with a chapter on the anatomy of birds by Frederic A. Lucas, and many illustrations in color, has just been added to the fine American Nature Series of the Holts.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just brought out an important work entitled "Siena—the Story of a Mediæval Commune," by Ferdinand Schevill, Professor of History in the University of Chicago, who presents a brilliant and comprehensive account of the history and art of one of the most interesting cities in the world, with thirty-two full-page illustrations; "England and the English from an American Point of View," by Price Collier, a keen and illuminating study, based on long experience and wide observation, as a whole appreciative and sympathetic, though at times caustic, of the traits of character which have made the Englishman what he is and the English race the virtual rulers of a fifth of the world; also, "Egoists—a Book of Supermen," by James Huneker, devoted to those modern poets and prose masters whose writings embody the individualistic idea as opposed to altruistic and socialist sentiments. They will have ready next week Robert Grant's new novel, "The Chippendales," which deals with the invasion of a typical modern man of affairs into a community really dominated by old ideals and traditions.

The Essex Book and Print Club has recently been organized as a book publishing club, in Salem, Mass., for the purpose of reprinting rare volumes relating to the history or the literature of Essex County, Mass., the publication of suitable imprinted material and the reproduction of rare views, portraits and maps. Their first publication will be "New-England's Plantation," by the Rev. Francis Higginson, first minister of the Plantation at Salem in the Massachusetts Bay Colony. The volume, an octavo of 133 pages, contains a reprint, in facsimile, of the rare first edition, (London, 1630,) from a copy in the John Carter Brown Library, and a reprint of the third edition, which has much additional matter, from a copy in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Library. The volume also will contain Higginson's Journal of the voyage to New England in 1629, copied from the manuscript now preserved by the Massachusetts Historical Society, and the first letter that he sent to England after his arrival. The book will be printed at the Riverside Press, Cambridge, under the immediate supervision of Bruce Rogers. Orders may be addressed to George Francis Dow, the secretary, at the Essex Institute, Salem, Mass.

Dodd, Mead & Co. will publish on the 31st inst. "Kingsmead," a new story by Bettina von Hutten, in which "Pam" presents herself to her friends in a new rôle. The book will have a frontispiece in color by Will Foster. They will bring out on the same date "The Girl and the Bill," by Bannister Merwin, an American story of mystery, romance and adventure, with illustrations by the Kinneys and a cover picture by Harrison Fisher; "The Hand on the Latch," by May Cholmondeley, author of "Red Pottage," etc., four good stories about women, each, however, differing from the others as widely as the circumstances and incidents of their stories differ; "The Hands of Compulsion." by Amelia E. Barr, a story of the Isle of Arran, written with the author's intimate knowledge of Scottish people and their ways; "The Great Wet Way," by Alan Dale, a very clever and humorous description of the types the author met in some fifty trips across the Atlantic on all kinds of steamers and with all sorts of people, for which H. B. Martin has made some characteristic pictures; also, "The Blue Bird," a fairy play, in five acts, about children written for adults by Maurice Maeterlinck, translated by Alexander Teixeira de Mattos.

Houghton Mifflin Company publish today "The Life of Edgar Allan Poe," by George E. Woodberry, in two volumes, an extension of the author's work written for the American Men of Letters series, which he has now augmented with fresh material while at the same time revising many of his former judgments and criticisms. A complete bibliography adds greatly to the value of the new version. Also ready are "Wild Life in the Rockies," by Enos A. Mills, of Estes Park, Colorado, who is now United States Forest Agent, a book composed of fourteen papers some of which have already appeared in various magazines; "When Lincoln Died, and Other Poems," by Edward W. Thomson, a Canadian by birth, of which the separate poems have also appeared in The Atlantic Monthly, Collier's Weekly and other journals; "The Poetical Works of John Dryden," edited by George R. Noyes, of the University of California; and "A Primer of Nursery Rhymes," by Leota Swem and Rowena Sherwood. The new fiction coming out the same day includes "On the Road to Arden," by Margaret Morse; "Through Welsh Doorways," by Jeannette Marks; "Stickeen, the Story of a Dog," by John Muir; and "The Silver Cup," by Charles Cuthbert Hall, a collection of the sermons for children by this specially gifted Brooklyn pastor, which he did not have time to revise as he had at first intended.

Moffat, Yard & Co. will have ready shortly "America and the Far Eastern Question," by Thomas F. Millard, in which the position of the United States in the Pacific Ocean is comprehensively examined, the author concluding that a perfectly stable balance of power can never be assured in the Far East without the active participation of America; and that self-interest will eventually compel this course; "Father Abraham," Ida M. Tarbell's new contribution to the knowledge of Lincoln; "Psychotherapy," by Dr. Hugo Münsterberg, treating the subject from the most modern point of view within the comprehension of men and women of ability who, however, have not specialized, but also full of suggestion to professional readers carefully studying every opinion on the subject now under such rapid development in its newer phases; "Tuberculosis a Preventable and Curable Disease," by Dr. S. Adolphus Knopf, a record of the great achievements of the last decade towards the control of this dreaded scourge, addressed alike to the nurse, the physician, the statesman, the legislator and the plain citizen; and "The Conquest of the Air," by Professor A. Lawrence Rotch, professor of meteorology at Harvard and director of the Blue Hill Meteorological Observatory, among the highest authorities of the world in a department in which the next ten years will show great development. Lovers of plants and flowers will welcome "When Mother Lets Us Garden," a useful elementary book by Frances Duncan, editor of the garden department of the Ladies' Home Journal; and "Who's Who Among the Wild Flowers," by W. I. Beecroft, a pocket-book on a new plan, in which the information is given chiefly by pictures and colors and in which Frances Duncan has also rendered assistance. John J. Chapman, author of "Four Plays for Children," has also just ready "A Sausage from Bologna."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS publish this week John Ayscough's new novel, "Dromina," which deals with that mysterious character, the young dauphin of France, son of Louis XVI., who, it is generally supposed, met his end in London; "The Rockies of Canada," a revised and enlarged edition of "Camping in the Canadian Rockies," by Walter D. Wilcox, with upwards of forty photogravures and other illustrations from original photographs taken by the author; a fourth and revised edition of Charles A. Conant's "A History of Modern Banks of Issue"—an edition that will include an account of the economic crisis of 1907; "A Manual of American Literature," edited by Theodore Stanton, which gives a concise and very comprehensive account of our literature from its beginnings in Colonial times to the present; also, "The Emmanuel Movement in a New England Town," a systematic account of experiments and reflections designed to determine the proper relationship between the minister and the doctor in the light of modern needs, by Lyman P. Powell, rector of St. John's Church, Northampton, Mass., and author of "Christian Science: the Faith and its Founder," "The Art of Natural Sleep," etc. They will publish about April 15 an interesting volume entitled "The Negro Problem—Abraham Lincoln's Solution," by William P. Pickett. It is perhaps not generally known that Lincoln early in life became convinced that the negro problem was susceptible of but one solution. What the solution was, Lincoln's efforts to secure its acceptance, the present necessity for its adoption, and means necessary to accomplish it, and the results which would flow from its adoption are set forth in full in the book. The author has made a complete study of the subject, and the publication of this work cannot fail to be of deep interest to all students of this most vexatious of problems.

THE JOHN LANE COMPANY publish this week "Someone Pays," a novel by Noel Barwell, who is descended from the family of Nabob Barwell, of Warren Hastings day. The story is told by means of correspondence passing between a number of persons. It is divided in two parts which are entitled, respectively, "The Vicarage Postbag," (July-August,) and "The College Letterbox," (October-December.) The present interest in Spanish art makes the publication this week of A. F. Calvert's "Madrid" in the Spanish Series especially appropriate. The book offers 450 illustrations and, besides a full account of the history and art of the Spanish metropolis; contains chapters on Spanish literture and drama, the bull fight and the café life. An interesting series of the illustrations shows the art of bull fighting. Mr. Calvert writes from the standpoint of a resident addressing visitors to the city. The Spanish metropolis is modern, he says, it is imbued with the principles of modern progress; and while one never ceases to rejoice in the unfaltering unchanged adherence to an immortal past characteristic of Toledo one may equally appreciate the spirit of new Spain found in Madrid. They have just issued "The Publishers' Calculator," a work in three separate volumes by B. F. Maupin, the treasurer of John Lane Company. The work is specially adapted to the requirements of the booktrade, but may be made equally useful in many other lines. Volume 1, Inventory Tables, shows at a glance the value of any number of books at any given price, giving multiples of all numbers from 1 to 1000, by all numbers 1 to 100; volume 2, Billing Tables, gives net amount with trade discount deducted, on any number of books, at a wide range of prices and discounts; volume 3, Royalty Tables, gives the royalty on any number of books, at practically all prices and per cents in use. Greatly simplifies the work of making up royalty statements and would save time during the most trying period in the accounting department, that of making up the year's financial statement. The books are hand-sewed on tape, fitted with indented index reinforced with linen. The compiler has produced a work made to insure accuracy, speed and durability.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, or those advertising anonymously, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line. All objectionable books will be excluded so far as they come under our notice.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

☞ Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" booksellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

TO THE TRADE:

"THE LITTLE GODS," by Rowland Thomas, which we have just published, is a new book of fiction of exceptional interest, and it is sure to be in active demand for a long time to come. After spending several years in the Philippines this young author wrote "Fagan," the story that was selected from 30,000 manuscripts for the $5,000 prize in the Collier short story contest. "Fagan" forms the first chapter of this remarkable book. Mr. Thomas has been hailed by the critics as the "American Kipling." He certainly gives the spirit, the atmosphere, the tang of Philippine Island life and of the American Army stationed there, with the same realism that made Kipling's stories of India world-famous. The advertisement herewith is now appearing in the newspapers. The second printing of THE LITTLE GODS is just off the press. We trust that you are well stocked.

A Sparkling Story of the Western Prairies

THE WATCHERS OF THE PLAINS

By RIDGWELL CULLUM

12mo, Cloth. With Frontispiece by J. C. Leyendecker. $1.50

THE setting is in the wild prairies of the Dakotas with the Indians on the warpath. The heroine, a plucky English girl. The hero, a typical Western cowboy always spoiling for a fight. The crisp style of the narrative kindles up the reader's enthusiasm to the topmost pitch and concludes with a denouement refreshingly original and pleasing.

A beautiful color poster of Leyendecker's frontispiece, size 14x22, sent to booksellers with every order.
